SPACING

- Table of Contents, List of Figures, List of Tables, and References can be single-spaced or double spaced.
• Double-space three times after chapter titles (48 pts).
• Double-space twice before subheadings (24 pts).
• Double-space once after subheadings (0 pts).
• Double-space once between two subheadings (0 pts).
• Double-space twice before and after figures (24 pts).
• Double-space twice before and after tables (24 pts).
• Double-space once before and after equations (0 pts).
• Do not leave a single line of text, a single-line equation, or a subheading alone on the top (widow) or bottom (orphan) of a page.
• Do not leave more than about 5 lines of white space remaining on a page unless it's the end of a chapter.

FIGURES
• Figures are normally diagrams, graphs, maps, or charts.
• Center figures on the page.
• Center captions below the figure. Do not exceed the width of the figure. If more than one line is needed, the caption should be left justified at margin.
• A figure should be placed after the paragraph of reference. If it will not fit on the same page, continue the text and place the figure on the next page.

TABLES
• Tables contain numerical or statistical information.
• Center tables on the page.
• Center captions above the table. Do not exceed the width of the table. If more than one line is needed, center each additional line in an inverted pyramid, for example:

  Table 6.3 Comparison of roll rotation plots when node was displaced, and an X-direction off-axis force was applied.

• If table is placed in the landscape position, the top of the table should be on the left side of the page, with the caption above the table. The page number is placed in the standard location.
